This documentary tells the story of how the African-America community is grappling with the gay rights issue in light of the recent gay marriage movement and the fight over civil rights. The film documents activists, families, and clergy on both sides of the campaign to legalize gay marriage and examines homophobia in the black community's institutional pillar—the black church and reveals the Christian right wing's strategy of exploiting this phenomenon in order to pursue an anti-gay political agenda. This second documentary feature by the director of Promised Land (2010) just won audience awards at AFI Docs, Philly Q Fest, and Frameline and continues to spark timely conversations as the film travels.
